Helenekilde Badehotel and Tisvildeleje Strandhotel are two hotels in the coastal town of Tisvildeleje in the north of Zealand. Both hotels offer excellent conference facilities.

The hotels are owned by former ballet dancer Alexander Kølpin, who executed recent refurbishments in his trademark luxurious yet relaxed style, resulting in a personal and homely atmosphere. "Within one hour of arrival, our guests will have loosened their ties," says general manager Pia Remillard. The emphasis is on making guests feel at home and the service is informal and attentive.

Helenekilde Badehotel is a classic beach hotel in a top location with stunning sea views. The hotel dates back almost a century but has all the modern comforts you would expect from a top end hotel. The conference facilities include four meeting rooms of various sizes; the largest one has a capacity of 30. All rooms have up-to-date technical facilities and wireless broadband.

The hotel has 28 newly renovated bedrooms, painted in hues that mimic the Kattegat Sea outside. Some have sea views and all have en-suite bathrooms. The interiors are eclectic, with individually sourced furniture from around the world and historic photos from the locality.

Tisvildeleje Strandhotel similarly offers up-to-date technical facilities. The largest conference room is a renovated stable, which has a capacity of 60. In addition, there are many cosy corners suitable for smaller meetings. The interiors are inspired by Karen Blixen's African farm, and the mood is aptly described as 'barefoot luxury'. New to this hotel is the 'Conference Camp' concept, where clients can hire the whole hotel and entirely tailor the event to suit their requirements.

Both hotels serve home-made rustic food, inspired by Nordic traditions, using seasonal and locally sourced produce whenever possible. When the weather permits, food will be served outside on the terraces.

The hotels can organise activities including mountain biking, yoga and guided walks.

Tisvildeleje is just one and a half hours drive from Copenhagen Airport. The area is decidedly up-market, and the stunning dune-backed beaches are famed for their white sand. Both of these venues would appeal to any client who is looking for a beautiful, relaxing environment for their next conference.
